Travel Style

Our Self-Guided Walking Adventures are ideal for travelers with an independent spirit who enjoy exploring at their own pace. We provide authentic accommodations, luggage transfers, and some meals, along with comprehensive Route Notes, detailed maps, and 24-hour emergency assistance. This gives you the freedom to focus on the things that matter to you—no group, no guide, and no set schedule to stand in the way of enjoying your adventure, your way.

Overview

This five-day, self-guided walking tour takes you south of Dublin to the Wicklow region, known as the “Garden of Ireland” and considered to be Ireland’s most romantic valley. A premier walking destination, the Wicklow Mountains form a granite chain of hills stretching 50 miles from Dublin to Wexford. And at the center is the famous “Wicklow Way,” Ireland’s oldest long-distance walking trail, the 82-mile north-south route that starts in Dublin. Beginning in famous Glendalough, with the evocative 6th-century remains of the monastery of St. Kevin, you walk part of the Wicklow Way, through parkland and beside rivers, through glens, and along panoramic cliff tops to two welcoming accommodations nestled between mountains and lakes, sampling Ireland’s best flavors along the way.

Daily Itinerary

DAY 1

Arrival in Dublin. Transfer to Glendalough. Monastic site visit

You are met in Dublin and transferred just over an hour south to the Vale of Glendalough in the Wicklow region and the Wicklow Mountains National Park. This U-shaped valley houses a fascinating and important early Christian and medieval monastic settlement, originally founded by St. Kevin in the 6th century. Your hotel is situated in the heart of the small village of Laragh, less than a mile from both the monastery buildings and the national park, with its network of walking trails and access to the Wicklow Way. Glendalough, meaning “valley of the two lakes,” contains religious structures from the 8th and 12th centuries—the most famous of which is a 100-foot stone tower—as well as a cathedral, churches, and decorated crosses. You may want to start your explorations with a visit to the comprehensive Glendalough Visitor Centre, and then proceed to walk amidst the 6th-century site. Dinner tonight is a short walk away at a charming local restaurant.

Heather House B&B, Laragh

A lovely bed-and-breakfast in the heart of the picturesque village of Laragh and the Wicklow Mountains National Park. Spacious apartment-style guestrooms are comfortably furnished, with classic décor and warm colors. The affiliated and highly-acclaimed Wicklow Heather Restaurant is just a short walk away, as is the local historical pub dating from 1776. With views of the national park and miles of trails and forest roads out the door, the hotel is also just under a mile from the monastic complex of St. Kevin at Glendalough.

Derrybawn Woodland Trail; 6.8 miles, easy to moderate, 600-ft. elevation gain

After awakening in the heart of the countryside and to a full Irish breakfast, you start your walk just out the door of the hotel. Your route today takes you along the Derrybawn Woodland Trail, comprising terrain of very well-maintained paths and forest road. Beginning on the Green Road walking trail, you cross the river on a footbridge, passing the valley's lower lake before heading up into the hills by the Poulanass Waterfall. The route then ascends the side of Derrybawn Mountain through mixed woodlands, with views over the valley. After a pleasant descent through the forest, you arrive back at the Green Road on the valley floor, returning to the starting point. The well-marked network of trails in the area offers several possibilities to extend the walk by a few miles, or you may return to your hotel to relax over a pint (and enjoy music in the pub on Saturday nights).

Heather House B&B, Laragh

DAY 3

The Spinc and Wicklow Way; 8 miles, easy to moderate with one moderate climb of 600 steps, 1,400-ft. elevation gain

Today's route not only joins the Wicklow Way, Ireland's first long-distance walking trail, but it also provides perhaps some of the most stunning clifftop views in Ireland. The route starts as yesterday, heading up the valley and gently climbing by the Poulanass Waterfall. Here you split off to climb 600 steps to the cliff-edge viewpoint on the Spinc—a sweeping panorama of the hills around, the valley below, and, on a clear day, the Welsh mountains out to sea behind you. You enjoy the views along the Spinc boardwalk for a mile, and then continue to gain height gently until you are just above the saddle between Mullacor Mountain and Lugduff Mountain. From here you have wonderful views into the steep U-shaped valley of Glenmalure, which runs parallel to the Glendalough Valley. You can also see the highest mountain in Leinster, Lugnaquilla (just over 3,000 feet). As you descend into the col, you meet up with the Wicklow Way walking trail, which brings you gently down the partly wooded slopes to the Poulanass Waterfall and back to your hotel along the edge of the lower lake.

Heather House B&B, Laragh

Glendalough to Enniskerry—The Wicklow Way; 8 miles, easy to moderate, 900-ft. elevation gain

Today, the longest walk of your tour rambles over a combination of boardwalks, walking paths, forest roads, and quiet back roads. The day begins with a transfer to the road above the mesmerizing Lough Tay. This dark lake is set below the imposing cliffs of Luggala, and is surrounded by land that was part of the Guinness family estate. When viewed from above, the lake, with its cream-colored sandy beach, resembles a pint of Guinness! You leave the road and join the highest and most scenic section of the Wicklow Way, along the side of Djouce Mountain. Here you have extensive views along Ireland's east coast and, if the weather is clear, you might again catch a glimpse of the mountains around Snowdonia in Wales. After Djouce, the route descends to the Dargle River, an excellent place for a picnic lunch. A short steep climb out of the Dargle Valley brings you to a path overlooking the Powerscourt Estate and waterfall. At almost 400 feet, it is the highest waterfall in Ireland and the UK. You may even spot some of the area's abundant deer.

The route continues downhill into the Glencree Valley, where you walk along the flower-filled banks of the Glencree River. Finally, you transfer to the lovely village of Enniskerry.

Ferndale B&B, Enniskerry

An intimate, upscale bed-and-breakfast in the charming 18th-century village of Enniskerry. Guest rooms are individually decorated with antique furnishings and carpets in this historical home and garden. Nearby is the Powerscourt Estate, one of Ireland's most beautiful historical castle and garden complexes, dating from 1300, and significantly altered in the 18th century. Also within walking or short driving distance are pubs and restaurants, including the famous Johnnie Fox's Pub, where traditional music is played every night.

DAY 5

Departure from Dublin

After breakfast, you are transferred from Enniskerry back to Dublin for your onward travels.

ACTIVITY LEVEL

This tour is one of our Self-Guided Walking Adventures, rated easy to moderate, with an average of 6–8 miles per day, with options on some days. The terrain is fairly gentle with a few hills and one moderate section of 600 steps on Day 3. Walks are on very well-maintained trails combining single-track boardwalks, packed-dirt or grassy paths, both narrow and wide, with roots, gravel, and loose stones at times. The trails above the tree line may feel more challenging than expected because they are exposed to the elements, and some sections have a slight drop-off on one side, which may not be recommended for those with severe vertigo. The walking routes are framed by either yellow gorse or broom, almost all season, and offer dramatic views of the Irish countryside, including deep lakes the color of Guinness.
