DAY 1

Join your Czech Republic: Vienna to Prague tour. Walk Austria's Weinviertel region and Telc town. Travel to Tábor, Czech Republic

2-5 miles, easy to moderate

Upon meeting in Vienna, enjoy a scenic hour-long drive north to Hollabrunn, a district in Lower Austria's beautiful Weinviertel. Characterized by gently rolling hills, countless vineyards, and charming villages, each with a pretty white church, the Weinviertel (meaning "wine quarter") is Austria's largest wine-producing area. Its most important grape variety is the peppery white Grüner Veltliner. Upon arrival in this picturesque region, you walk along quiet country lanes nestled between vineyard-covered slopes and old oak forests. This bucolic landscape is known for its wine cellar-lined roads called Kellergassen, meaning "wine-cellar street". You arrive in one of these villages on foot and receive a warm greeting for lunch at a family-run country inn. Perhaps you'll start with a fresh salad, followed by an excellent dish of goulash. After, enjoy a short wine presentation with a chance to sample the region's acclaimed vintages.

Later, drive across the border into the Southern Bohemian region of the Czech Republic, to visit Telc, a UNESCO World Heritage site often regarded as the best-preserved of all Bohemian and Moravian Renaissance towns. Following a devastating fire in 1530, the entire town was rebuilt in a unified Renaissance style. You enjoy a walk from one side of the town to the other, passing through its central square bordered by historical structures displaying a dazzling array of colorful, elaborate façades, covered arcades, and walkways.

After spending some time admiring Telc, a drive of just over an hour brings you to the medieval town of Tábor, arriving by early evening. Fascinatingly, Tábor was founded in the 15th century as an egalitarian peasant commune. The town is known for its maze of narrow cobblestoned streets, elaborate tunnel systems, and monumental city walls. Your home for the next three nights is ideally located right on the town's central Žižka Square. After checking in, you reunite for dinner in your hotel's excellent restaurant, famous for its updated regional cuisine.

These are some of the Czech Republic's dreamiest landscapes, dotted with open farmlands of grazing cows, horses, sheep, and deer as gentle hills roll towards the horizon. After lunch, you may choose to continue one mile along undulating terrain, with all options returning to Tábor by mid-afternoon.

Later, there'll be time for you to relax in your hotel. Or, explore the winding streets and shops of Tábor before dinner on your own. Your guides will point out a number of nearby restaurants to choose from.

Meander with your guide through a labyrinth of cobblestone streets and continue into the picturesque forests surrounding the town. Follow pleasant walking paths through nearby fields and forests along an ancient pilgrimage route to the Church of the Blessed Virgin Mary and Klokoty Monastery. This spectacular double-cross-shaped Baroque complex dates to the early 17th century and boasts numerous spires and an idyllic location above the Lužnice River. You make your way back into the center of town in time to delight in lunch on your own.

Baroque Peasant Walk. Travel to Ceské Budejovice

3-7 miles, easy

After breakfast, you travel about one hour from Tábor. Today's footpaths lead you through the peaceful countryside of Southern Bohemia—rolling hills with gentle ascents and descents. Your guides can offer flexible route options to satisfy those interested in shorter and longer walks. Throughout your idyll, you pass through some of the region's most distinct villages featuring remarkably preserved "Baroque peasant" houses. Dating from the 19th century, when farmers and merchants imitated the architectural style of the nobility, these houses are appreciated for their colorful façades, gables, and white stucco ornamentation. On the quiet streets of these working communities, you encounter the descendants of several generations of farmers who might share stories or a handful of just-picked fruit from nearby orchards. During your visit, you are invited to enjoy a home-cooked lunch prepared with fresh ingredients from local farms.

Later, you continue toward Ceské Budejovice. This provincial town of Southern Bohemia is steeped in authenticity and charm, an undiscovered gem free of tourist crowds. Pastel-hued Gothic, Renaissance, and Baroque buildings line its inviting streets leading to Ottokar II Square. Ceské Budejovice has brewed beer since the 13th century and was home to the imperial brewery for the Holy Roman Empire. Centuries ago, its Budweiser bier (that is, beer from Budweis) was one of the most popular in Europe. Today, the original Budweiser Budvar beer is still brewed here. Before dinner, a short introductory walk takes you through Ottokar II Square, the largest square in the Czech Republic. From its central fountain depicting mighty Samson, narrow streets fan out into the city, framed by archways and historical buildings housing a wide range of shops and restaurants.

Your countryside walk takes you meandering through four different, beautiful villages. You eventually reach Holašovice, a UNESCO World Heritage site known for its unique and well-preserved Baroque farmhouses.

After touring the historic town, a 20-minute drive takes you back to the Ceské Budejovice to enjoy lunch and some time at your leisure. You may choose to join a guided walk of the town's surrounding parks, or, perhaps, you'll spend your time relaxing at the hotel or visiting local shops to look for the perfect souvenir. In the evening, you reunite with your group to enjoy another scrumptious dinner.

Hike the Blanský Les Nature Reserve. Walk into Ceské Krumlov

1.5-5 miles, moderate

After breakfast, you travel to the Blanský Les Nature Reserve, a picturesque network of pastoral trails through a variety of natural habitats and mixed coniferous-deciduous forests of pine, oak, beech, and ash. A break in the trees opens up every now and then, providing a glimpse of the countryside as birdsong echoes in the canopy above. Continue on foot to the enchanting town of Ceský Krumlov, named a UNESCO World Heritage site in 1992 for its historical importance and physical beauty. You enter near the 13th-century Ceský Krumlov Chateau, Bohemia's second-largest castle. Situated on the banks of the Moldau River—the Vltava in Czech—Ceský Krumlov is a showcase of elegant Gothic, Renaissance, and Baroque buildings housing delightful cafés, pubs, restaurants, shops, and galleries along cobblestone lanes. Explore this engaging village of painters and artisans on your own for the afternoon.

Returning to Ceské Budejovice in the early evening, you enjoy a dinner on your own.

Known as the “City of a Thousand Spires” Prague is the nation’s capital; its skyline is graced with gold-tipped towers, onion domes, and church steeples.

Upon arrival in Prague, you embark on a walking introduction to Prague Castle, the city’s 9th-century centerpiece. This city-within-a-city atop Castle Hill is a vast complex of buildings composed of Gothic and Romanesque churches, several palaces, stunning gardens and courtyards, and defense towers. A highlight of your castle tour includes the unique gilded glass mosaic of the Gothic St. Vitus Cathedral. Afterward, enjoy a light lunch and set off on a walk through the city’s picturesque park and gardens above the city center (a route preferred by locals).

After checking in to your hotel, conveniently located between Prague Castle and the Old Town, you may decide to relax or instead join a short walking tour of Prague’s historical Old Town Square.
