Activity Level

This tour is one of our Guided - Flex Walking Adventures and features a combination of paved roads and easy terrain, mixed with moderate hills, moorland and uneven footpaths. Due to Ireland's climate, the footpaths can often be wet and muddy. Ideal for enthusiastic beginners and experienced walkers. Several of the walks require a transfer from our hotel to the start of the walk. Our Trip Leaders often use this time in the van for our morning route review, so we can enjoy a more leisurely morning at breakfast. Please note you will need to climb over a variety of pasture gates and stiles. As one of our Guided - Flex tours, some days offer options for self-exploration, cultural visits, or free time to relax on your own.

DAY 1

Join your Ireland: Cork, Killarney & Kenmare tour

Muckross park gate to Muckross House; 1.75 miles, easy, Muckross House to Old Weir Bridge; 4 miles, easy

After breakfast on your own, meet one of your guides at Cork's Imperial Hotel at 9:00 a.m. (South Mall, Cork, Republic of Ireland; Tel: +353 21 427 4040). To reach the hotel you can take a taxi from Cork airport into the city (approximately 20 euros), or travel on Bus Eireann, which provides frequent and direct coach service between Cork Airport, Cork City Center and Cork Bus Station (approximately five euros; travel time is around 25 minutes, depending on traffic; for more details go to buseireann.ie).

After an included lunch in the manor's Garden Restaurant, you have the choice of enjoying a stroll through magnificent displays of ornamental shrubs, flower beds, and wide expanses of manicured lawns; or continuing with a walk around Muckross Lake. This walk takes you through ancient woodlands, over Brickeen Bridge, and across Dinis Island to the Meeting of the Waters and the Old Weir Bridge. All the while, you are surrounded by wonderful views, small lakeside beaches, and rocky coves.

You'll then meet your bus and drive to your hotel in Killarney—your home for the next three nights—collecting non-walkers at Muckross House on the way.

After some free time to settle in, you'll get to know your fellow travelers and guides better during a welcome reception and dinner this evening.

DAY 2

Discover the Gap of Dunloe. Independent exploration of Killarney

Kate Kearney's Cottage to Lord Brandon's Cottage; 7 miles, easy to moderate

After breakfast, you'll transfer to Kate Kearney's Cottage, the site where the legendary 19th-century beauty made and sold an illicit brew “very fierce and wild, requiring not less than seven times its own quantity of water to tame and subdue it.” Now a popular shop and pub, it's also the starting point for today's walk, which takes you up a steady paved incline and through a spectacular glacial valley, known as the Gap of Dunloe. Your trail parallels a mountain stream over rugged terrain lined with massive boulders, until you reach the pass between Macgillycuddy's Reeks—Ireland's tallest mountain range, at 3,414 feet—and the Purple Mountains. Then you'll descend into the Black Valley. Throughout your journey, you'll have a horse-drawn jaunting cart at the ready if you want a break.

A lakeside picnic awaits you at Lord Brandon's Cottage. From here, you'll board open boats and cruise to Ross Castle, a 15th-century tower house, as your boatmen regale you with tales of Napoleon, King Brian Boru, and others who have passed this way.

This evening, shuttle into Killarney for dinner on your own. You'll also have the opportunity to mingle with locals over a pint of Guinness in one of Killarney's lively pubs.

DAY 3

Glenbeigh and the Kerry Way

Start of walk to meet minibus; 3 miles, easy or Start of walk to Glenbeigh; 5 miles, easy to moderate.

Afternoon Glenbeigh to Curra Hill; 2 miles, easy

Today's walk brings you to the northern part of the Kerry Peninsula. After a short drive, your bus will leave you at the trailhead—a quiet, paved country road circling Seefin Mountain. As you walk, enjoy spectacular views over Lough Caragh. At the end of the road, you have the option of rejoining the minibus and meeting the group in Glenbeigh, or walking to Glenbeigh up the mountain on a footpath through Windy Gap. This path is part of the Kerry Way, a 135-mile walking route over old droving paths and coach roads.

Upon reaching Glenbeigh, enjoy free time for lunch on your own in this quaint town.

After lunch, you have two options: You can shuttle two miles to Rossbehy Creek and take a short walk along White Strand, a beautiful sandy beach on a small peninsula stretching into Dingle Bay. Or you can walk along the banks of River Behy and follow the Kerry Way through the sloped woods of Curra Hill, then shuttle down to Rossbehy Beach.

Tonight before an included dinner, you'll meet Denis Kissane, a local friend who will give a nostalgic presentation on his childhood in "The Old Bohareen."

DAY 4

Walk through Killarney National Park into Killarney and Ross Island. Visit the home of Denis Kissane

Castle Ross Hotel to Killarney; 2 miles, easy. Loop walk around Ross Island; 2 miles, easy

After breakfast, pack your luggage, as you will be departing Killarney today for Kenmare. First, though, you'll take a very short drive to Castle Ross Hotel for a walk in Killarney's beautiful parklands. You can stop at Killarney Cathedral, then venture into town for shopping, or join your guides for a walk around Ross Island. More of a peninsula than an island, Ross Island is heavily wooded with a network of paths leading to attractive viewpoints overlooking Lough Leane. Also visible are remains of former copper mines, some dating back 4,000 years to the prehistoric Bronze Age, and others from the 19th century.

After free time for lunch in Killarney, you'll visit your newfound friend, Denis Kissane, who has invited you to see both his childhood home (featured in his talk yesterday evening) and his current home, where he will entertain you over tea or coffee and freshly made scones. Afterward, continue to Kenmare.

Tonight is free for you to explore the town, a four-minute walk away along a footpath directly opposite the hotel. Dinner is on your own.

DAY 5

Gleninchaquin Park. Independent exploration of Kenmare

Various options from 2 miles, easy to 4 miles, moderate

After a leisurely start to your morning, you'll explore Kenmare Market, where vendors sell everything from cheese and soda bread to antique tools. Afterwards, you'll shuttle 15 miles to Gleninchaquin Park, located at the end of a beautiful valley. Here you meet the park's groundskeepers, whose ancestors have lived in the valley for more than 130 years. Then, choose from a variety of walks, from gentle farm or river strolls to a more challenging walk above a 448-foot waterfall (well worth the effort for the amazing views). Make sure you visit the Heritage Site to see the reconstructed 19th-century cottage that was typical in this area.

After leaving the park, you'll ride to a nearby pier overlooking Kenmare Bay to enjoy a special lunch of freshly prepared Irish salmon.

This afternoon, shuttle back to Kenmare where you'll have free time to experience this pretty town on your own. Choose from among Kenmare's many pubs or restaurants for dinner on your own this evening.

DAY 6

Kerry Way to Caherdaniel and Derrynane Bay

Derrynane House to Abbey Island and back; 2 miles, easy or walk to Derrynane House; 4 miles, easy to moderate

Today the scenery is spectacular as you walk along the southwestern section of the Kerry Way, with views of tiny islands, towering cliffs, and some of the finest beaches in Europe.

For those who would like a slightly more challenging option, the morning trailhead begins along a single-track road. Follow this path along another section of the Kerry Way, known to the locals as the Old Butter Road. This leads you along farm tracks and then into open moorland. There is a slight incline before you drop down into Caherdaniel, where you're met with one of the best views in Ireland, overlooking Derrynane Bay.

Once in Caherdaniel, a pretty coastal village on the bay's shores, you transfer by bus to Derrynane House.

The ancestral home of Daniel O'Connell, "the Liberator" or "the Emancipator" of Ireland, Derrynane House today is a public museum. If you'd prefer the easier option, you may shuttle directly to Derrynane Bay and enjoy a lovely walk with one of your guides across to Abbey Island. Here you'll view the remains of a 10th-century abbey and a local cemetery.

You meet for an included lunch in the café at Derrynane House, followed by a tour of the museum. Derrynane House is furnished with a variety of items belonging to Daniel O'Connell, including the dueling pistol he used to kill rival John D'Esterre in 1815, the black glove he wore in remembrance of that day, and the fabulous gold chariot he rode through Dublin to greet jubilant crowds upon his release from prison. A video presentation outlines the life and times of the man who inspired many leaders from Mahatma Gandhi to Martin Luther King, and was known as the Great Liberator.

You'll also have time at leisure here to explore the gardens behind the house, walk around the Derrynane Dunes nature trail, or simply relax on one of the most beautiful beaches in the country, with more than a mile of golden sand. Regroup at the Keatings Bar, a cozy pub located in a small room in a private house. After an included drink, you'll shuttle back to Kenmare.

This evening, you'll enjoy a farewell dinner in your hotel and bid goodbye to your Country Walkers guides.
